The Poor in Spirit

The Bible says, "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven" (Matthew 5:3). The term "poor" is relative. Poverty in America is a major issue, but if you compare this to poverty in sub-Saharan Africa, you might find the disparity quite shocking. How does society view poverty? The government sees it as a problem to solve. Special organizations raise money for aid to poverty stricken countries. The point is, while the world looks at poverty as weakness, the Bible calls it strength.

Whether this passage means humility leads to true spiritual happiness or that depending on wealth and possessions will cause us to miss the greatest possession, this poverty certainly points to a deep need for God's guidance. Do you want to be blessed? Do you want to possess the kingdom of God? How can we be poor in spirit?

The process begins by realizing our dependence on God. Proverbs tells us what real trust in God looks like (Proverbs 3:5-6). Paul suggested that when we're weak, when we're going through pain and persecution, we are most clearly dependent on God, and His mighty power shines through our "poverty" (2 Corinthians 12:9-10). God wants to lift us up and make us better, but He can't do it till we recognize our need for Him (James 4:6). God is looking for an internal change and conviction that only He can truly mold us (Psalms 51:17). When we yield these things to Him, we're blessed with contentment and peace of mind and we can see the way to the kingdom of God more clearly (John 3:5). Please embrace your spiritual poverty and bask in the blessings of God's kingdom.
